DETAILED ACTION

This office action follows a response filed on February 27, 2004. Claims 1 and 3 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over U.S. Patent No. 6,034,165 to Tomomatsu et al. for the same reasons set forth in the previous office action.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicants traverse the rejection of claims 1 and 3 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over U.S. Patent No. 6,034,165 to Tomomatsu et al. Applicant's arguments have been considered fully, but they are not persuasive.

Applicants submit that the polymers presented in Tomomatsu et al. do not satisfy the requisite features of the present claims. In particular, a series of calculations, based on examples disclosed in the reference, was presented to show that the ethylene content of the p-xylene soluble fraction lies outside the claimed range of 33-39 wt %.

While the calculations are correct mathematically, they are not necessarily representative of the actual distribution of ethylene within the entire polymer. The polymer of example 1 contains a 14 wt % p-xylene soluble fraction and has a total ethylene content of 8 wt %. Applicants contend that the ethylene content of said p-xylene soluble fraction is 57 wt%, but this is assuming that the entire amount of ethylene is contained within the p-xylene soluble fraction. Taking the same example, it could be possible that 5 wt % of ethylene is contained in the p-xylene soluble fraction and 3 wt % is contained in the xylene insoluble fraction. In this case, the entire polymer still has an ethylene content of 8 wt %, and the ethylene content of the p-xylene soluble fraction is 5/14, or 36 wt %. In this case, the polymer would possess all requisite features of the polymer of the present invention.

Applicant's burden of proof of establishing an unobviousness difference over the invention of Tomomatsu et al. has not been met adequately. It should not be difficult to obtain experimental data to support arguments of counsel, and until more cogent information is provided, the rejection of record will not be withdrawn.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
